Laura Kohler has been a real estate agent for eight years, most recently with Cutler Real Estate in New Albany. She is a member of both the National Association of Realtors and the Ohio Realtors Association.

Ms. Kohler was elected to the Worthington City Board of Education after serving as the co-chair of the levy committee that worked to secure the funds to build Worthington Kilbourne High School. While on the board, she served as both president and vice president and was recognized for her consistent commitment to placing the best interests of students ahead of other competing entities.

After her family moved to New Albany, Ms. Kohler continued to be involved in public education, serving on the district levy committee, communication committee, finance committee and the leadership group for the district's strategic plan. She also was a leader of New Albany for Kids, a nonprofit educational excellence advocacy organization. She was elected to the school board in 2010. While on the board, Kohler served as president, chair of the district's finance committee, represented the board in four contract negotiations and continued to advocate for diverse opportunities, high expectations and continuously improving achievement levels for students. She resigned from the New Albany-Plain Local Board of Education to accept her seat on the State Board of Education.

Ms. Kohler is the mother of four adult children and the proud "Mimi" of two beautiful granddaughters.

Laura was appointed to the State Board by Gov. Kasich in February 2017 and is eligible for re-appointment in January 2021.
