

Ohio's Credit Flexibility Plan

Senate Bill 311 (the Ohio Core legislation) raised the graduation requirements for high school students, with the goal of increasing the number of students who are ready to meet the demands of this global and technological age. Among its provisions, it included a requirement that the State Board of Education adopt a plan by March 31, 2009, that enables “students to earn units of high school credit based on a demonstration of subject area competency, instead of or in combination with completing hours of classroom instruction.” School districts, community schools and chartered nonpublic schools “shall comply” with the provisions of the plan, phasing in its provisions during the 2009-10 school year.

Ohio's plan for credit flexibility is designed to broaden the scope of curricular options available to students, increase the depth of study possible for a particular subject and allow tailoring of learning time and/or conditions. These are ways in which aspects of learning can be customized around student interests and needs.

Students may earn credits by:

- Completing coursework;
- Testing out of or demonstrating mastery of course content; or
- Pursuing one or more educational options (e.g., distance learning, educational travel, independent study, internships, music, arts, after-school/tutorial programs, community service or other engagement projects and sports).

Credit flexibility is intended to motivate and increase student learning by allowing:

- Access to more learning resources, especially real-world experiences;
- Customization around individual student needs; and
- Use of multiple measures of learning, especially those where students demonstrate what they know and can do, apply learning or document performance.

Physical Education and Credit Flexibility

Physical education teaches students the importance and value of physically active lifestyles. There are a variety of benefits gained through physical education. Personal health, social skills, self-esteem, motor skills and knowledge base are areas that can be positively impacted. By using credit flexibility plans, students can pursue individual interests while meeting state standards and local curriculum.

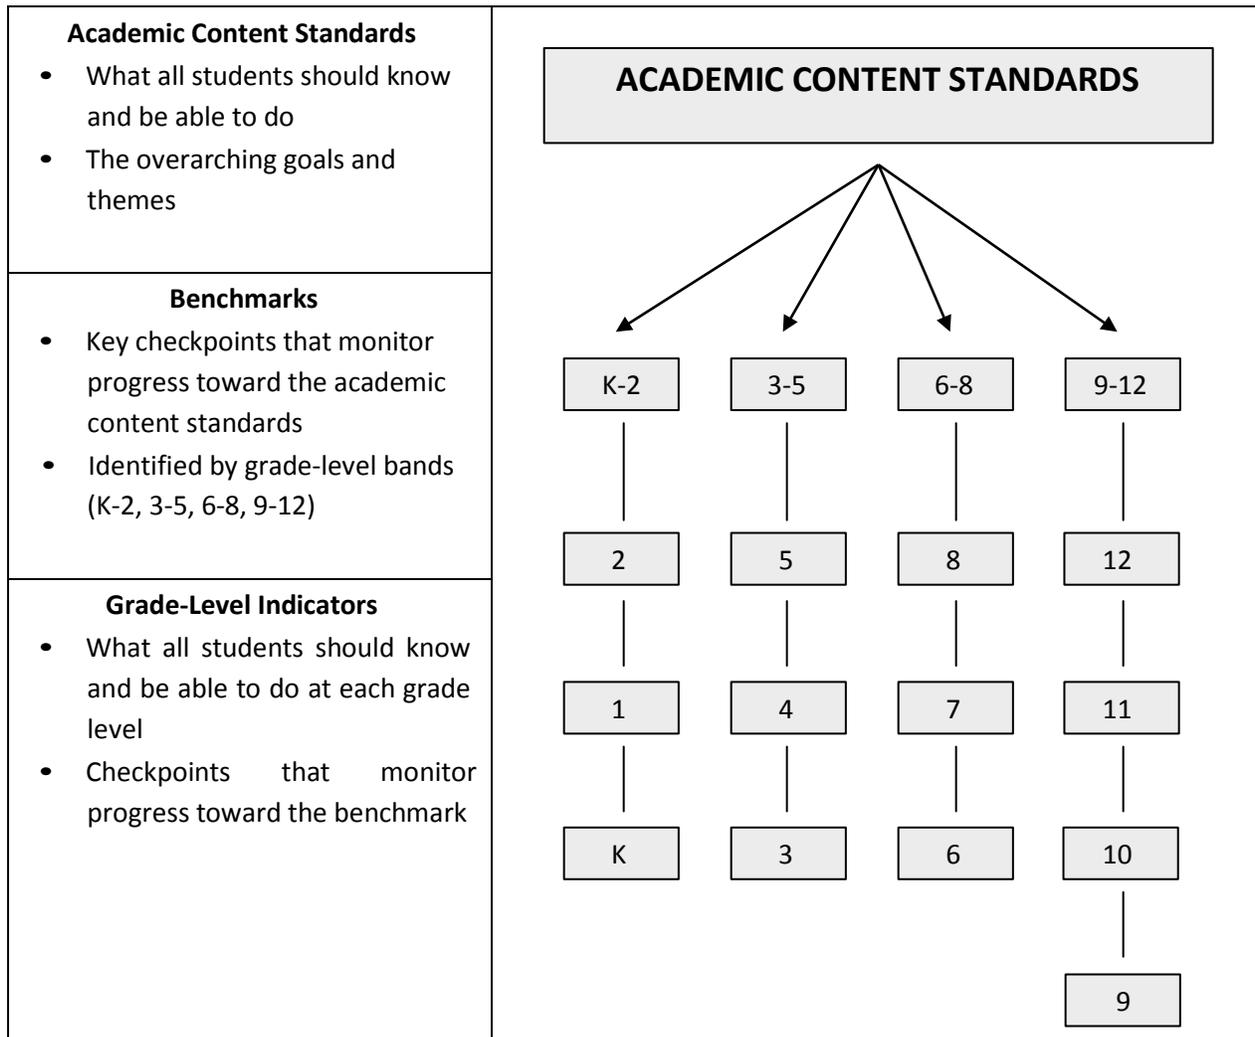

Worksheets are provided in this document to assist students with developing individual credit flexibility. The amount of content covered in the benchmarks and indicators for the Academic Content Standards for Physical Education assumes a daily physical education program.

How to incorporate the Credit Flexibility Worksheet

The worksheets provide state standards, benchmarks, organizers and indicators, as well as sections to record alignment with local curriculum, activities and assessment/evidence. The student will be responsible for aligning his or her plan with local curriculum as well as to the state standards, provide a description of the activity and explain how competency will be met.

For each standard, two benchmarks, A and B, are listed. The organizers describe the main theme. Indicators provide ideas to assist the student with the development of the plan that will allow success in meeting benchmarks and ultimately standards. The number of indicators will vary. The flow chart below provides further clarification of content standards, benchmarks and grade-level indicators.

Academic Content Standards Framework Physical Education K-12

The chart below provides information on how to read each section as well as where student work should be added to the document.

Assessment Information

It is important for students, teachers, parents and other stakeholders to know if the student is meeting the state physical education academic content standards and local curriculum. Assessment provides the means through which a student can demonstrate his or her understanding and skills in relation to state standards and local curriculum.

A comprehensive and thoughtful assessment system provides feedback with needed information about student performance. Results provide students with a way to determine what they are learning and what is needed to improve performance. Assessment results also allow an individual to reflect on the plan's effectiveness.

There are a variety of ways to assess student achievement in physical education. The following tools<sup>1</sup> can be used to assist in providing assessment. This is not a comprehensive list; rather, it is information which can help guide the development of a credit flexibility plan in the area of assessment.

- Checklist – A list of items for verification purposes, used to pinpoint specific actions or traits of a presentation with predetermined criteria.
- Performance Task – A goal-oriented evaluation, where a student will demonstrate a competency and the teacher/evaluator will review the performance on the basis of certain benchmarks (e.g., demonstration of a routine, locomotor sequence and oral report).
- Record of Performances – A win-loss record, fitness results, skill evaluation and other authentic data which correctly characterizes student performance.
- Rubric – A rating scale and record of criteria connected to learning objectives through which student comprehension, proficiency and performance can be evaluated.
- Interview, Survey and Questionnaire – Tools used to collect information on thinking and feelings toward a specified topic.

- Journal – A student-written account used to contemplate performances or presentations, communicate thoughts, feelings, insight and point-of-view about experiences in physical education, and provide feedback on how the student is connected with the class.
- Log – A generated document of involvement over a specified period of time.
- Project – A succession of research, design and final product, with gathered information presented for evaluation.
- Written Test – A set of questions or exercises assessing proficiency or ability.
