EMIS Change #22-54 “Removes the references to OGT on the table on page 13 of Section 2.6 of the Manual. The OGT is no longer a testing pathway within the scope of K-12 education” but there are other sections of the EMIS Manual with references to “OGT” that should also be cleaned up.

According to this change, the OGT is no longer a testing pathway within the scope of K-12 education. However, when I go through the Resource Book (former Rules Book), it takes me to a webpage that states OGT will be available as an online test three times this year from Sept 2021 through July 2022.

Will those who were OGT students have this last school year to test?

Good morning,

Thank you for your comment regarding EMIS change 22-54. We appreciate your input and participation in the process. You are correct that a person may still take the Ohio Graduation Test (OGT) during the 2021-2022 school year. However, at this point, that person would be over the age of 22 and therefore, not included in EMIS data reporting requirement. Does this help to clarify your question?

Thank you,
