Introduction
The purpose of the new English Language Arts Glossary of Terms is to provide definitions for terms that educators may find confusing (or for which they need a clear definition) while teaching Ohio’s Learning Standards for English Language Arts or reviewing related webpages. This glossary is not meant to be a comprehensive content-area list of literary terms or a list for students. Department staff selected some terms because we frequently received questions about these terms or related standards from the field. The advisory committee and working groups, who worked on the standards’ revisions, suggested other terms be added to this glossary due to public comments from the first revision survey in the spring 2016.

Adage
A saying that sets forth a general truth that has gained credibility through use over time (e.g., No risk, no gain.).

Affix
A word part that is "fixed to" either the beginnings of words (prefixes) or the endings of words (suffixes); For example, the word disrespectful has two affixes, a prefix (dis-) and a suffix (-ful).

Alignment
The degree of correspondence among or connection between parts, ideas, concepts, or constructs

The vertical alignment of the standards looks at the way each grade level standard builds on the previous one so that skills and knowledge follow a progression that increases in complexity to the anchor standard.

Alliteration
The repetition of speech sounds in the beginning of nearby words (e.g., Peter Piper's pickled peppers).

Allusion
A passing reference in a text to a literary or historical person, place, event, or other literary work; For example, in Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, Walton writes in his second letter to his sister, Margaret, "...but I shall kill no albatross, therefore do not be alarmed for my safety..." This is an allusion to Samuel Taylor Coleridge's Rime of the Ancient Mariner, a prominent literary work, in which a sailor suffers great misfortune at sea, including the loss of his entire crew, after killing a highly regarded bird.

Analogy
Relationships created between new and familiar words, concepts, and ideas

As a literary term, analogies can be various types of comparisons, such as metaphors or parables; however, analogies can also be stand-alone relationships like those you might see on the SAT.

Example - RED : COLOR :: ROSE : FLOWER
Analyze
To break material down into its constituent parts and determine how the parts relate to one another and to the overall structure or purpose of the text(s)

Antonym
A word having the opposite meaning of another word (e.g., cool : warm).

Argument
A type of oral or written communication that develops or debates a topic in a logical or persuasive way

Assess
To evaluate or measure the nature, ability, or quality of

Audience
The intended target group of a message, such as adolescents for young adult literature

Author’s purpose
The motive or reason for which an author writes, as to entertain, inform, or persuade

Blend
To combine the sounds represented by letters in order to pronounce a word or word part (e.g., snail)

Central idea
See main idea

Character
Persons represented in a dramatic or narrative work

Claim
An arguable statement

Clarify
To make the meaning more transparent and easy to understand

Clause
A group of words containing both a subject and a predicate (e.g., when she went to the store, he sang)
Cloze/Close reading

Cloze reading procedure involves removing words from a sentence or paragraph and having the student infer meaning from the context in order to supply the appropriate missing words to create meaningful text. At the lower grades, a list of missing words, in random order, is often provided for the student.

Close reading procedure requires that students gather information through a deep examination of the text and organize that information around pertinent ideas that help students create meaning or develop a strong factual base.

Compare

To detect similarities or correspondences between two or more ideas, objects, concepts, and other elements from a text

Compose

Arranging ideas and details in a clear and coherent way to create an effective message

Connotation

What may be suggested by or associated with the meaning of a word (e.g., home may suggest warmth or family)

Context

1. The parts of a written or spoken statement that precede or follow a specific word or passage, usually influencing the meaning or effect;
2. The social or cultural situation in which a spoken or written message occurs

Contrast

Indicates differences

Counterclaim

Arguable statements intended to dispute other claims

Decode

To analyze (break down) spoken words or graphic symbols/units of a familiar language to discover their intended meaning

Delineate

To describe or outline with precision

Demonstrate

To make evident or prove

Denotation

The general or literal meaning of a word (e.g., home is a place where a person lives)
Describe
To convey the appearance, nature, and/or attributes of elements or ideas in literary or informational text using vivid language and textual evidence.

Dialogue
The verbal interaction between two or more characters in a dramatic or narrative work.

Diction
The stylistic choice and use of words and phrases in speech or writing.

Drama
A literary genre designed for performance in the theater in which actors take on the roles of characters, perform the indicated actions, and utter the written dialogue.

e.g.
For example or such as; used to give an example of the preceding word or words.

Edit
The correction of mechanical features of writing, such as spelling, punctuation, and capitalization, in order to prepare materials for publication or presentation.

Emergent reader texts
Texts consisting of images, images with a single word or phrase, and/or short sentences made up of learned sight words and CVC (consonant-vowel-consonant) words; may also include rebuses (a picture that represents a word or word part) within the text to represent unfamiliar words.

Evaluate
To make judgments about the value of ideas, purposes, or claims of a text based on criteria and standards.

Evidence
Facts, figures, details, quotations, or other sources of data and information that provide support for claims or an analysis of the text and that can be evaluated by others.

Exemplar
A product that serves as an excellent illustration of a point, principle, or model.

Explain
To make clear by describing in more detail or giving relevant facts or ideas.

Explicit
Directly stated.
Fable
A short narrative that contains a moral or principle of human behavior (e.g., Aesop's The Hare and the Tortoise - slow and steady wins the race)

Figurative language
Words or expressions with meaning other than the literal interpretation

Figures of speech
Spoken and written language that departs from literal meaning in both pattern and usage (e.g., personification, metaphor, hyperbole)

First person
A narrator who is a participant in the story and uses the pronouns I and me

Flashback
The technique of disrupting the order of events in a story by shifting to an earlier time in order to introduce information

Folktale
A short narrative in prose of unknown authorship which has been a part of an oral tradition over generations (e.g., Johnny Appleseed)

Formal style
A style of speaking and writing used to inform an audience in impersonal terms, marked by careful attention to organization of content and to grammatical structure and pronunciation.

Genre
A type or class of literature (e.g., fiction, drama, poetry)

Grapheme
A written representation of a phoneme (a sound); may be a single letter or group of letters i.e.

That is; used to state something more clearly

Idiom
Phrases or expressions that have meanings different from the literal (e.g., The kids clean their rooms once in a blue moon.)

Implement
To apply a procedure to an unfamiliar task; to put into practice
Implicit
Intended or suggested rather than directly stated

Inference
A conclusion logically drawn from presented information

Informative/explanatory writing
Writing that represents knowledge originating from instruction, study, or research and that is meant to reveal or further clarify by describing in more detail

Integrate
To identify elements and fit them into an existing structure

Interpret
Understand and explain the meaning of

Irony
Text or dialogue in which there is a root sense of hiding what is actually the case in order to achieve special rhetorical or artistic effect

- Verbal irony is a statement in which the meaning the speaker implies differs sharply from what is directly said. For example, when someone says, "What a nice day!" if it is raining outside, this is verbal irony.
- Dramatic irony involves a situation in a play or story in which the author and the audience or reader have information that is unknown to the characters or actors. For example, in Snow White and the Seven Dwarves, Snow White does not know the apple offered to her by the disguised evil queen is poisonous, but the audience or reader knows this.
- Situational irony is represented by a mismatch between expectation and reality. For example, you save money for months to buy your new video game console, and the day before you finally go to get it, your mother surprises you with the new game system as a gift.

Key details
Points of information in a text that strongly support the meaning or tell the story

Literal
Taking words in their usual or most basic sense without metaphor or allegory

Learned spelling patterns
Groups of letters that can represent the same sound; For example, -er, -ir, and -ur can represent the same sound in her, sir, and fur.

Main idea
The chief topic of a passage expressed or implied in a word or phrase
Metaphor
A type of comparison in which a word or expression's literal usage and meaning is applied to a distinctly different thing (e.g., "All the world's a stage..." - Shakespeare)

Meter
A unit of rhythm; the recurrence, in regular units, of a prominent feature in the sequence of speech sounds, usually in poetry

Mood
The emotion(s) expressed by an author or artist in the rhetoric, structure, and/or perspective of his or her work

Moral
A principle or value of human behavior

Morphology
The study of the structure and construction of words including where the word originated (i.e., Greek, Latin), the inflection (the way a word is changed or altered in form to achieve a new meaning, such as adding –s or –ed to a verb to change tense), and compounding (two or more words connected to make a longer word, such as birdbath).

Myth
A narrative of ancient origin that a particular cultural group believes to be a true explanation of why the world is as it is and that provides a rationale and rules for societal customs (e.g., The Adventures of Perseus)

Narrative writing
A story involving events, characters, and what the characters say and do

Narrator
The person in a fictional narrative who relates the account or story

Nonliteral
See figurative language

Nuance
A subtle difference in a shade of meaning, expression, or sound

Onset
The initial phonological unit (letter or letters involved in the initial sound of the word) of any word (e.g., the c in cat)
Opinion
A personal view, attitude, or appraisal

Parallel structure
A form of language construction in which word forms, sentences, clauses, or paragraphs are constructed in the same way

Paraphrase
To translate from the original text into one's own words

Personification
When an inanimate object or an abstract concept is spoken of as though it were endowed with life or with human attributes or feelings (e.g., The sun smiled down on us.)

Perspective
A position from which something is considered or evaluated

Phoneme
An individual sound unit of speech

Phrase
A group of words not containing a subject and a predicate (e.g., running in the rain)

Plagiarism
The practice of taking someone else's work or ideas and passing them off as one's own

Plot
The events and actions of a narrative work

Poetry
Literature that can be in metrical form and that expresses an idea or concept often using figurative language; The three most common types are narrative, dramatic and lyric.

Point of view
Chiefly in literary texts, the narrative point of view (as in first- or third-person narration)

Prefix
An affix attached before a root word (e.g., disconnect)

Premise
An assertion or proposition which forms the basis for a work or theory
Primary sources
An original text used largely for informational purposes, as in research. (e.g., journals, photographs, research data)

Prose
Written or spoken language that is not verse

Proverb
A short, concise statement of widely accepted truth about everyday life (e.g., Actions speak louder than words.)

Publish
To prepare written material for presentation to an audience

Pun
A deliberate and humorous play on words that are the same or similar in sound but different in meaning (e.g., I'm glad I know sign language; it's pretty handy.)

Purpose
The goal a reader or writer seeks to attain

Revise
The part of writing and preparing written material concerned chiefly with reconsidering and reworking text relative to task, purpose, and audience

Rhetoric
The effective use of language in prose, verse, or oration to communicate with, inform, or persuade an audience

Rhyme
Repetition of the last stressed vowel and of all the speech sounds following that vowel

Rhythm
A recognizable, varying pattern in the beat of the accents in a stream of speech sounds

Rime
A vowel and any following consonants of a syllable (e.g., ook in book)

Roots
The basic part of a word that carries the main component of meaning and that cannot be further broken down without loss of identity
Rubric
An evaluation tool or guideline that outlines the criteria and indicators of success

Satire
The use of ridicule or sarcasm, often in humorous or witty ways, to expose immorality or foolishness

Scaffolding
The gradual withdrawal of adult support within the learning process in order to shift more and more responsibility for learning onto the student

Scene
The subdivision of acts in a play in which there is no change of place or in the continuity of time

Second person
A narrator who addresses a story to someone he or she calls "you"

Secondary sources
A text used largely for informational purposes that references, analyzes, interprets, or critiques one or more primary sources, as in research

Segment
Separating the individual phonemes, or sounds, of a word into distinct units

Seminal U.S. documents
Influential and important works in United States history (e.g., The Bill of Rights, The Emancipation Proclamation 1864)

Sensory language
Use of details from the five senses to appeal to the reader

Sequence of events
The structure of the action of a story in its chronological order

Setting
The general place, historical time, and social circumstances in which action occurs in a story or play

Soliloquy
The act of a character in a drama, alone on stage, uttering his thoughts aloud

Simile
A comparison between two distinctly different things indicated by the word "like" or "as" (e.g., quiet as a mouse)
Sonnet
A lyric poem consisting of a single stanza of 14 lines of iambic pentameter (i.e., ten syllables, five pairs of one stressed and one unstressed syllable)

Stanza
A grouping of lines of verse in a poem often set off by a space in the printed text

Suffix
An affix attached to the end of a base, root, or stem that changes the grammatical function of the word (e.g., history - noun to historical - adjective)

Summarize
Condensing a text to its general theme(s) and/or major points

Suspense
A lack of certainty on the part of a concerned reader about what is going to happen to characters with whom the reader has established a bond

Synonym
A word having a similar meaning (e.g., cold : chilly)

Syntax
The study of the way sequences of words are ordered into phrases, clauses, and sentences

Synthesize
A process of arranging and combining pieces, parts, and elements into a pattern or structure not clearly there before

Text complexity
The inherent difficulty of reading and comprehending a text combined with consideration of reader and task variables (e.g., language clarity, sentence length, reader motivation)

Text features
Print features, as well as graphic, informational, and organizational aids (e.g., bold print, italics, maps, charts, labels, headings)

Theme
An abstract concept broad enough to cover the entire scope of a literary work
Thesis statement

The basic argument advanced by a speaker or writer who then attempts to prove it throughout the remainder of the piece of writing

Third person

A narrator who is outside the story proper and refers to all of the characters as he, she, or they

Tone

The author's attitude reflected in the style of the written word

Transitions

Words, phrases, or sentences that establish connections between ideas when writing or speaking (e.g., similarly, in addition, finally)

Verse

Compositions written in meter