West Carrollton Schools

Innovative Strategies for Secondary Transition

In an effort to provide meaningful education and experiences to all students, West Carrollton Schools will implement a Transition Program that consists of purposeful, intentional, and personally meaningful college and career preparation. This program includes:

- Middle and high school level pre-vocational coursework;
- Authentic experiences to support independent living and working after high school graduation;
- Community-based job placements;
- Family engagement; and,
- Personnel dedicated to supporting these structures.

Anticipated outcomes are listed below:

- Increased student engagement in high school coursework;
- Increased opportunity to gain paid work experience before high school graduation; and,
- Increased independent attainment of functional living skills.

Progress will be measure through the administration of satisfaction surveys, the comparison of student performance (grades and credit attainment), and the collection of data surrounding the number of students employed in the community.
