Dear Educator,

Excellence can be achieved when we have high expectations for ourselves and our students.

In 2004, the Ohio General Assembly created an Educator Standards Board (ESB) through Senate Bill 2. The legislature charged the board with bringing standards-based reform to the educator level by defining standards for teachers and principals at all stages of their careers, and delineating criteria for high-quality professional development.

The next year, the State Board of Education adopted three new sets of standards developed by the ESB: the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development. These standards focus the goals and objectives of educators as they seek to improve the profession. They also will serve as:

- A guide to professional development;
- A tool in developing coaching and mentoring programs; and
- Support to higher education in developing the content and requirements of preservice training and ongoing professional development of Ohio's educators.

Coupled with the Academic Content Standards for students, these benchmarks provide Ohio's educators with a powerful path to improve their practice and increase student achievement. The foundation is in place for continued development and refinement of standards at every level, including upcoming standards for superintendents.

Ohio students are competing globally in mathematics, science, engineering and technology with students in India, Japan and China. Leading professions in the 21st century will demand creative and critical thinking skills across all disciplines – our doctors, lawyers, teachers, architects and business leaders of tomorrow. And so we must ask ourselves: What will our teachers and principals need to know and be able to do to educate these students of tomorrow?

Standards for Ohio Educators contains a context for the development of the standards, and tools for educators to understand the content of the standards and ways in which the standards can play a meaningful part in their everyday practice.

The Standards for Ohio Educators also are available online at <http://esb.ode.state.oh.us/>.

Together, we can create the teachers and principals of tomorrow, who will make sure that every student in Ohio – regardless of race, ethnicity, income level, language background, disability status or gender – will have the knowledge and skills to graduate and be successful in college, careers and life in the 21st century.

Once we realize our own potential to teach and lead, our students will achieve excellence.

Sincerely,

Susan Tave Zelman
Superintendent of Public Instruction

Section One: Introduction

What Is Included in this Document?

This document includes Ohio’s standards for educators:

- the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession;
- the Ohio Standards for Principals;
- the Ohio Standards for Professional Development.

In addition to the standards, additional information and tools are provided to assist educators in understanding and using these standards.

Who Is the Audience for this Document?

This document is written for you – Ohio’s educators. One purpose for articulating clear, world-class standards is to assist educators in guiding their own professional learning. Along with this document, other companion guides and technical manuals will be released to assist Local Professional Development Committees (LPDCs), districts and schools with creating and implementing their professional development plans and programs. This document is intended to assist individual teachers and principals in self-assessing their performance, collaboratively discussing self-assessment results with peers or supervisors, and using these inputs to develop Individual Professional Development Plans.

Why Standards-Based Education?

The success of any organization depends on a set of clear, shared goals and standards. Schools are no exception. Setting high expectations and clearly stating the criteria needed for success is essential in creating a world-class educational system. Clearly and commonly defined goals for students, teachers and principals serve multiple purposes:

1. Standards make clear the shared expectations for success;
2. Standards delineate what matters in learning and teaching;
3. Standards show best practices in instruction and leadership;
4. Standards facilitate communication through common language;
5. Standards meet state and federal guidelines.

Standards help create quality schools with highly effective principals and teachers who guide instruction that meets the needs of all students.

In a standards-based system, learning, instruction, curriculum and assessment align. Students understand what they are expected to know and do; teachers focus instruction to help students meet these expectations; and principals support teachers with the resources and tools needed to effectively teach.

A Brief History of Ohio's Standards-Based System

The creation of standards for teachers, principals and professional development is a recent development in Ohio's movement toward a world-class, standards-based educational system. Over the last decade, Ohio has made important education policy advances, with a focus on standards and accountability, which together have moved Ohio's kindergarten through 12th grade system forward in several important ways.

Ohio's standards movement began with the creation of student standards. In 1997, the State Board of Education and the Ohio Board of Regents created a Joint Council that established common expectations for what all students should know and be able to do upon completion of high school. These common expectations in six content areas (the Arts, English Language Arts, Foreign Languages, Mathematics, Science and Social Studies) served as the foundations for Ohio's Academic Content Standards, mandated by Ohio Senate Bill 1 (2001), which also called for new assessments to match the standards.

Along with the development of these clearly defined expectations for students, the state recognized the importance of clearly defined expectations for teachers and school leaders. The Governor's Commission on Teaching Success, convened in 2001, was asked to develop recommendations to support the capacity of Ohio's teachers at consistently high levels. Essential to the Commission's recommendations in its report entitled Achieving More: Quality Teaching, School Leadership, Student Success was the proposal that the state create standards for teachers, principals and for professional development. According to the Commission, "The absence of standards that provide principles of professional practice for all teachers and school leaders must be addressed if we are serious about ensuring quality teaching in every Ohio classroom."

"Will clear expectations and more credible evaluation systems really make a difference? Educators in Ohio think so. Seventy-two percent of the teachers the Commission surveyed agreed that the quality of their teaching would improve if the standards used to evaluate their performance were more clearly defined."

Achieving More: Quality Teaching, School Leadership, Student Success

Ohio is serious about its commitment to quality schools. The report of the Governor's Commission on Teaching Success was followed by the passage of Senate Bill SB 2 in 2004, which mandated the creation of the Educator Standards Board (ESB). The Board was charged with the creation of the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development. The standards will be followed by guidelines to assist schools in evaluating performance against the standards.

These reforms have already produced results. In almost every grade and subject area, Ohio students' average and absolute test scores have risen. Students who have been traditionally disadvantaged – Black, Hispanic and economically disadvantaged students – have made faster gains than the average Ohio student. Ohio's fourth- and eighth-grade students' scores on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) in mathematics, reading and science are all above the U.S. average.

Ohio still has work to do, however, to create a truly world-class educational system, and the standards for teacher, principals and professional development will move Ohio closer to this goal.

Introduction

The Development Process of the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development

In 2004, Gov. Bob Taft signed Senate Bill 2, which put into law many of the recommendations made by the Governor's Commission on Teaching Success in the areas of standards, teacher preparation, recruitment and retention, and professional development. SB 2 mandated the creation of the Educator Standards Board (ESB) to bring standards-based reform to the educator level by defining standards for teachers and principals at all stages of their careers.

In order to develop the mandated standards, the ESB solicited stakeholder organizations for nominations for writing team members – practicing teachers, principals and administrators and higher education representatives – who would draft the content and language of the standards. The ESB and standards writing teams met throughout the 2004-2005 academic year to draft the standards. Feedback from all Ohioans was sought and used to revise the draft standards. National reviewers were identified to review and provide feedback on the drafts. The revised standards were adopted by the State Board of Education in fall 2005.

Key Areas of Alignment among the Standards

The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development were developed to support each other and to create an aligned system of expectations for Ohio's educators. The standards together represent what is known about the practices of highly effective teachers, principals and systems of professional development. As a result, common themes cross all three sets of standards. These shared ideas include an emphasis on the importance of:

- a focus on student achievement;
- data-based decision making (principals use data to lead the development of a vision and goals of the school; teachers use data to set their instructional plans and professional development goals);
- communication and collaboration;
- shared leadership;
- principals as instructional leaders;
- continuous professional development.

How Are the Standards Organized?

All three sets of standards are organized as follows:

- Standard: The Standard is the broad category of knowledge, skills or performance;
- Narrative: The Narrative more fully describes the content and rationale for each Standard;
- Elements: The Elements are the statements of what educators should know, think and do to be effective. In the case of the Ohio Standards for Professional Development, the Elements are the statements of the characteristics of effective professional development.
- Indicators: The Indicators show the knowledge and skills of each Element in practice. The Indicators are observable and measurable statements that serve as tools in discussions of educators' skills and knowledge or professional development's effectiveness.

This organization by Standard, Narrative, Element and Indicator is shown in the graphic below:

Standards:

Overarching goals and themes that provide a framework

Narrative Summaries:

Statements that describe key understandings, assumptions and beliefs related to the standard

Elements:

Specific statements of knowledge, skills or performance

Indicators:

Observable and measurable statements that provide evidence of effectiveness in practice

Introduction

The Indicator Levels

In the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession and the Ohio Standards for Principals, the indicators are written to show performance at three levels: Proficient, Accomplished and Distinguished. These levels are based on research on the growth of educators throughout the span of their careers. The inclusion of these leveled indicators is intended to guide discussion about the practices of teachers and principals in order to recognize teachers' and principals' successes and meet their professional needs.

The indicators are cumulative. The Proficient level indicators describe the building blocks of knowledge and skills that allow educators and school leaders to advance in their expertise. Teachers and principals who reach the Accomplished level demonstrate mastery of the skills and knowledge at the Proficient level. Teachers and principals at the Distinguished level demonstrate mastery of the skills and knowledge at the Proficient and Accomplished levels. Therefore, to get a complete picture of the characteristics expected of a teacher or principal at the Distinguished level, readers will need to look at the indicators provided in the Proficient and Accomplished levels as well.

Mastery of each level does not necessarily correlate with time on the job; these indicators represent developmental skills and knowledge. Some teachers or principals might be at one level for one element and another level for another element. Teachers who move to a new grade or a new discipline might move to another level of proficiency. All teachers and principals are expected to perform at the Proficient and the Accomplished levels during the course of their careers. The three levels can be defined as:

Proficient Level

All Ohio teachers and principals are expected to meet the Proficient level.

At the Proficient level, teachers demonstrate knowledge of the skills and abilities needed for effective content-area instruction. They are in the process of refining their skills and understandings to fully integrate their knowledge and skills. They monitor the situations in their classrooms and schools and respond appropriately.

Accomplished Level

All Ohio teachers and principals are expected to reach the Accomplished level.

At the Accomplished level, teachers effectively integrate the knowledge, skills and abilities needed for effective content-area instruction. They are fully skilled professionals who demonstrate purposefulness, flexibility and consistency. They anticipate and monitor situations in their classrooms and schools, and make appropriate plans and responses.

Distinguished Level

The Distinguished level represents the highest level of achievement for Ohio teachers and principals.

At the Distinguished level, teachers and principals use their strong foundation of knowledge, skills and abilities to innovate and enhance their classrooms, buildings and districts. They are leaders who empower and influence others. They anticipate and monitor situations in their classrooms and schools and effectively reshape their environments accordingly. They respond to the needs of their colleagues and students immediately and effectively.

What Do These Standards Mean for Me?

	Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession	Ohio Standards for Principals	Ohio Standards for Professional Development
Teachers	These standards will guide teachers in self-assessing their knowledge and practices and considering their professional growth along a continuum of practice. This continuum of practice is also defined more fully in the career ladder developed by the Educator Standards Board.	The Ohio Standards for Principals articulate an expectation of shared leadership; teachers can reference these standards to consider opportunities for collaboration and team leadership. These standards also may serve as a resource for aspiring principals.	These standards will guide teachers in determining their professional development needs and developing their Individual Professional Development Plans.
Principals	Principals should use the Ohio teacher standards as they seek ways to develop, support and retain high-quality teachers. The standards create a common language for coaching and mentoring purposes. Schools and districts should use the professional development standards to design the school or district professional development program.
Higher Education	ODE and OBR will collaborate with colleges and universities to align teacher preparation programs with the educator standards.	Higher education institutions should consider the Ohio Standards for Principals as they develop programs for Ohio's future principals.	The professional development standards should be considered as higher education institutions plan course offerings that will be taken as continuing education courses for educators and administrators.
LPDCs	The standards will assist LPDCs in helping educators focus their plans for professional growth and create their Individual Professional Development Plans.	The standards will assist LPDCs in helping principals focus their plans for professional growth and create their Individual Professional Development Plans.	Standards-based criteria will be developed that LPDCs can follow in helping educators create their own plans and in evaluating their Individual Professional Development Plans once they are created.

Introduction

Uses of the Standards

The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession were created to guide teachers as they reflect upon and improve their effectiveness throughout their careers. It is anticipated that these standards will:

- assist higher education programs in developing the content and requirements of preservice preparation and development;
- focus the goals and objectives of districts and schools as they support educators;
- be used to plan and guide professional development;
- serve as a tool in developing coaching and mentoring programs.

The Ohio Standards for Principals define the expectations for and traits of effective principals at all stages of their careers. These standards promote effective leadership practices and will support principals as they reflect upon and improve their effectiveness throughout their careers. These standards will:

- assist higher education programs in developing the content and requirements of leadership preparation programs;
- focus the goals and objectives of districts as they support their schools' educational leaders;
- be used to plan and guide professional development for principals;
- serve as a tool in developing coaching and mentoring programs for principals.

The Ohio Standards for Professional Development delineate the effective characteristics of quality professional development. They are written for multiple audiences including planners, providers, participants and evaluators of professional development. The standards present a view of effective professional development as an ongoing, systematic process that is linked to the daily practices of educators and based on data that shows the professional development needs of individuals and organizations.

Support for Using and Implementing the Standards

The development of the standards and the release of this document are just part of the process of implementation. Along with this document, companion guides and technical manuals for professional development will assist schools, districts and outside professional development providers in creating professional development plans and programs that reflect what is known about effective teaching, school leadership and professional learning.

The Ohio Professional Development Team is made up of practicing educators who represent the Ohio Staff Development Council, Ohio's LPDCs, the Ohio Department of Education and the Educator Standards Board. In work that is being facilitated by the National Staff Development Council (NSDC), this group is establishing a planning framework that includes guidelines and tools for districts creating professional development programs using a standards-based planning cycle. The LPDC Regional Support Site Team is developing new criteria for effective Individual Professional Development Plans, as mandated by SB 2. The criteria will be updated as LPDCs align their expectations with the new standards and phase in these new guidelines over time, allowing for the five-year cycle of renewal. These efforts together will support Ohio as it moves toward a standards-based educational system that will support Ohio's educators in meeting the learning and achievement goals of all of Ohio's students.

Future Steps in Ohio's Standards-Based System

Each of the sets of standards is intended to drive conversations about the practices of teaching, educational leadership and professional development. SB 2 mandated the development of evaluation guidelines aligned with the Standards; these will be developed in the near future.

The bill also directed the ESB and ODE to develop jointly a proposal for a career ladder program, defined as “a performance-based multilevel system of teaching positions or compensation levels within a school district or district building.” In doing so, the ESB and ODE sought to create a comprehensive teacher leadership conceptual framework that enhances roles and responsibilities; encourages increased knowledge, skills and performance; spreads a culture of career opportunities; and increases teacher productivity and fulfillment. This proposal for a career lattice program is firmly anchored in the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession and the Ohio Standards for Principals, both of which emphasize the importance of teacher leadership and shared leadership structures, and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development, which describes a process in which teachers can progress throughout their careers.

The standards and the information at the end of this document can be used to facilitate important conversations about effective practices for Ohio's teachers and principals and to engage all Ohio educators in a process of professional development within a learning community that shares the same definition of effectiveness and the same goal of increased learning among all of Ohio's students.

Introduction

The research is clear: what matters most is the quality of the teacher we put before every student. It is the interaction between teacher and student that is critical to producing high-level student learning and achievement. With the adoption of the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development, Ohio has continued on track toward an aligned, standards-based education system in which all students achieve at the highest levels.

Intended Purposes of the Standards

The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession were developed for use as a guide for teachers as they continually reflect upon and improve their effectiveness as educators throughout all of the stages of their careers. While there are many influences on a teacher's development, these standards will serve as an important tool for teachers as they consider their growth and development in the profession.

In addition, these standards will serve many other audiences and purposes. It is anticipated that these standards may:

- assist higher education programs in developing the content and requirements of preservice training and development;
- focus the goals and objectives of districts and schools as they support educators and seek to improve the profession;
- be used to plan and guide professional development;
- serve as a tool in developing coaching and mentoring programs.

These Standards are intended to drive conversations about the practice of teaching and are not intended to serve as an evaluation instrument.

The Connections between the Standards

Ohio's Standards for the Teaching Profession are interrelated and connect in teachers' practice. They are not intended to show isolated knowledge or skills and are not presented in order of importance.

Teachers' knowledge and skills in each standard area will impact their ability to perform effectively in other standard areas. For example, teachers' understanding of assessment will impact their ability to provide effective instruction based on students' needs. Their understanding of student diversity will impact their ability to create positive learning environments. Their ability to assess and reflect on their own effectiveness will impact the quality of their instruction. Each of these standards is important in effective teaching.

Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession

In the Standards for the Teaching Profession, seven standards are delineated. These standards fall under three larger organizers, as shown below, and include:

The Focus of Teaching and Learning

Standard 1:

Students

Teachers understand student learning and development and respect the diversity of the students they teach.

Standard 2:

Teachers understand student learning and development and respect the diversity of the students they teach.

Narrative Summary

A thorough understanding of how students learn is essential to quality teaching. Effective teachers must understand the processes and strategies students use to construct knowledge, and use this understanding to create learning activities appropriate for students' ages, abilities and learning styles. Effective teachers understand the impact of students' backgrounds and experiences on their learning. They connect instruction to students' needs, interests and prior knowledge. They understand the abilities and talents of their students, and use that knowledge to determine appropriate learning activities and identify resources for students that foster rich learning opportunities. Teachers' sense of efficacy results in their persistence to help all students learn and achieve at high levels.

Elements

- 1.1 Teachers display knowledge of how students learn and of the developmental characteristics of age groups.
- 1.2 Teachers understand what students know and are able to do and use this knowledge to meet the needs of all students.
- 1.3 Teachers expect that all students will achieve to their full potential.
- 1.4 Teachers model respect for students' diverse cultures, language skills and experiences.

Introduction

Ohio is in the midst of creating an aligned, standards-based education system in which all of Ohio's students achieve at the highest levels. Ohio has already adopted academic content standards for students. Now, Ohio is in the process of adopting standards for education professionals through the adoption of the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession, the Ohio Standards for Principals and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development.

The Ohio Standards for Principals play an essential role in Ohio's standards-based system. Ohio's educators and students will look to educational leaders to guide and support them throughout this change process. Without effective principals, Ohio will not realize its educational goals. Effective principals communicate and share leadership to engage all educators in realizing a vision for high-quality teaching and improved student learning and achievement. They affect change in their schools and support others in realizing this change.

With the adoption of the Ohio Standards for Principals, Ohio has clearly defined the traits and skills of effective leaders. These standards will promote the most effective leadership practices among Ohio's principals. The result will be an educational system in which all teachers instruct and students achieve at the highest levels.

Intended Purposes of the Standards

The Ohio Standards for Principals were developed for use as a guide for principals as they continually reflect upon and improve their effectiveness as leaders throughout all of the stages of their careers. While there are many influences on a principal's development, these standards will serve as an important tool for principals as they consider their growth and development as leaders.

In addition, these standards will serve other audiences and purposes. It is anticipated that these standards may:

- assist higher education programs in developing the content and requirements of leadership training programs;
- focus the goals and objectives of districts as they support their schools' educational leaders;
- be used to plan and guide professional development for principals;
- serve as a tool in developing coaching and mentoring programs for principals.

These standards are intended to drive conversations about effective leadership and are not intended to serve as an evaluation instrument.

Ohio Standards for Principals

In the Standards for Principals, five standards are delineated. These standards fall under three larger organizers, as shown below, and include:

Goals and Achievement	Conditions	Collaboration and Communication
Standard 1: Continuous Improvement Principals help create a shared vision and clear goals for their schools and ensure continuous progress toward achieving the goals.	Standard 3: School Operations, Resources and Learning Environment Principals allocate resources and manage school operations in order to ensure a safe and productive learning environment.	Standard 4: Collaboration Principals establish and sustain collaborative learning and shared leadership to promote student learning and achievement of all students.
Standard 2: Instruction Principals support the implementation of high-quality standards-based instruction that results in higher levels of achievement for all students.		Standard 5: Parents and Community Engagement Principals engage parents and community members in the educational process and create an environment where community resources support student learning, achievement and well-being.

Standard 1: Continuous Improvement

Principals help create a shared vision and clear goals for their schools and ensure continuous progress toward achieving the goals.

Narrative Summary

Schools operate in a challenging and changing environment, requiring principals to be visionary leaders who have the ability and confidence to challenge existing structures, take action, influence situations and produce results. Principals must engage key stakeholders in the development and realization of a shared vision, based on challenging goals and high expectations, which guides and directs each member of the school community toward overall academic, social and emotional success. To be successful in this context, principals must understand the complexities of change and use strategies to lead change effectively. They must initiate and monitor change using student data and other sources of information to target and support needed improvements. Principals utilize key stakeholders to identify, influence and respond to issues, trends and changes in the environment. Understanding the implications of changes for the school and the community, principals demonstrate flexibility and adaptability in their approach to leading and managing change.

Introduction

Effective professional development meets the needs of educators by responding to the needs of students. It also must align with personal, building, district, state and national goals. All stakeholders have a responsibility to ensure that Ohio's educators continue to develop the skills and knowledge needed to enable students to perform at the highest levels of achievement. Ongoing professional growth is essential for ensuring that educators have the knowledge and skills they need to meet the increasing demands of their profession.

Ohio's standards for professional development delineate the essential characteristics of quality professional development. These are not minimal expectations. Schools that successfully implement all of these standards should expect to see higher quality teaching and increased student achievement.

Ohio's Standards for Professional Development are written for multiple audiences. The standards can be used by each of these audiences.

The key to implementing effective professional development is to view it as an ongoing process that is embedded in the daily work of all educators. Effective professional development must be approached systematically and involve all educators in the planning, implementing, reflecting and maintaining phases. To be successful, this system must involve and be supported by all educators.

Ohio Standards for Professional Development

Standard 1

High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) is a purposeful, structured and continuous process that occurs over time.

Narrative Summary

Professional development is a continuous process that includes multiple steps: planning, implementation, reflection, evaluation and revision. The result of this process is a series of activities or programs that has been systematically planned and designed to form an integrated whole. The participants in professional development are part of small learning teams that are involved in each step in this process. In order for professional development to contribute to real change and to continuous improvement efforts, participants must be provided with time to fully engage in the professional development process, to apply new ideas and to reflect on changes in their practice.

In an effective system of professional development, leaders improve educators' capabilities and create the structures and conditions that support educators' use of new skills and knowledge. Professional development leaders clearly identify and communicate the goals of professional development. They establish structures (such as daily schedules and yearly calendars) that support professional development. They embed professional development into the jobs of educators; High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) occurs as part of the work day and is about the day-to-day work that educators do. Resources (people, time, materials and funds) are made available and allocated to ensure that educators can implement their new skills and knowledge.

Standard 2

High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) is informed by multiple sources of data.

Narrative Summary

Increasing student achievement is the ultimate goal of professional development. To this end, professional development is based on an analysis of classroom, school, district and statewide student data that reveals current student performance. This analysis is then considered against the goals and the expectations for student learning in the classroom, school, district and state. Effective professional development helps educators close any gaps that exist between students' actual performance and the desired levels of student performance.

To ensure that educators perceive the value and relevance of professional development, educators must be involved in analyzing data, research and best practices to determine the focus of professional learning. The likelihood of professional development being successful, and of educators employing what they have learned, is increased when educators are involved in the process of ensuring that professional development is data-based.

Elements

- 2.1 School, district, state and national data related to student achievement are analyzed to determine the focus and content for professional development.
- 2.2 Educators analyze their practice and examine multiple sources of data and research to determine the focus and content of their professional development plan.
- 2.3 Educators study the research that support claims made by advocates of a particular approach to instructional improvement or whole school reform.
- 2.4 Data from evaluations of previous professional development are analyzed to determine the focus and content for future professional development.

Standard 3

High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) is collaborative.

Narrative Summary

Collaboration ensures that professional development extends beyond impacting individuals. Collaboration ensures that professional development will impact whole groups and result in schoolwide change and improvement. Educators within and across buildings must have access to one another to work in small learning teams to collaboratively identify both challenges to effective teaching and learning as well as solutions to continually improve teaching and learning.

Learning teams may engage in many varied activities, such as curriculum development, action research or study groups. What each of these activities shares is that colleagues are working together, focused on improving teaching, impacting student learning and increasing student achievement. This is an essential condition of High Quality Professional Development.

Elements

- 3.1 Professional development provides ongoing opportunities for educators to work together.
- 3.2 Diverse teams of educators work collaboratively to plan, deliver and evaluate professional development.
- 3.3 Professional development incorporates communication technologies to broaden the scope of collaboration.

Standard 4

High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) includes varied learning experiences that accommodate individual educators' knowledge and skills.

Narrative Summary

While the process for designing and implementing professional development must be collaborative, specific learning experiences within professional development should be based on both individual needs and the needs of the group. Specific learning experiences should vary to fit the needs, knowledge, skills and goals of the educator participants. The sequence of learning experiences should be systematically planned to meet the needs of educators to reflect upon and implement new skills and knowledge.

Elements

- 4.1 Professional learning opportunities are based on identified needs.
- 4.2 Professional development includes a variety of learning experiences.
- 4.3 Professional development reflects a logical sequence of experiences.

Standard 5

High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) is evaluated by its short- and long-term impact on professional practice and achievement of all students.

Narrative Summary

The primary goal of professional development is to increase student learning. Although it is difficult to measure a cause and effect relationship, the impact of professional development must be evaluated on multiple levels, beginning with participants' immediate satisfaction and learning and continuing with the evaluation of educators' application of new knowledge, organizational change and student achievement. Effective evaluation of professional development is a systematic, purposeful process of collecting and analyzing multiple sources of data to make informed decisions. Evaluation data informs continuous improvement by identifying the effects of professional development in terms of intended outcomes and enabling planners to focus and improve the quality of professional development.

Elements

- 5.1 Professional development is evaluated by assessing levels of participant satisfaction and learning of content.
- 5.2 Professional development is evaluated by evidence of new skills applied to practice.
- 5.3 Professional development is evaluated by the extent to which organizations change to improve.
- 5.4 Professional development is evaluated on its impact on achievement of all students.
- 5.5 The professional development process is evaluated.

5.5 The professional development process is evaluated.	In a High Quality Professional Development (HQPD) system: a. Data are continuously collected to ensure effective implementation of professional development.

Standard 6

High Quality Professional Development (HQPDP) results in the acquisition, enhancement or refinement of skills and knowledge.

Narrative Summary

The content of professional development should focus on what teachers are expected to teach and students are expected to learn. Professional development should provide teachers with specific strategies that research and experience have proven to be effective in increasing student learning and achievement. Content knowledge alone may not result in improvements in teaching. Rather, a professional development focus on content – connected to what students should know and how students can best learn that content – will likely result in more effective teaching and learning. Effective teachers have a deep understanding of the disciplines they teach as well as knowledge and use of appropriate skills of pedagogy. Professional development is the means by which educators acquire, refine or enhance the knowledge and skills needed to create high levels of learning for all students. Professional development informs educators about research and ensures that they have the knowledge, skills and dispositions to access and use research in their practice. When educators understand the theories that support certain instructional strategies or decisions, they can more easily adapt the strategy to their own classrooms. Effective professional development ensures that educators have strategies for engaging students and families to share the responsibility of student learning.

Elements

- 6.1 Professional development plans support the understanding and use of local, state and national standards as well as school and district curriculum priorities.
- 6.2 Professional development supports the study, evaluation and integration of relevant and current best practices and research into practice.
- 6.3 Professional development enhances understanding of instructional strategies appropriate to specific content and addresses the needs of diverse learners.
- 6.4 Professional development ensures that all educators understand and use various types of assessments to measure student learning.
- 6.5 Professional development provides educators with tools to engage students, families and communities in improving student achievement.

Section Five: Understanding and Using the Standards

Reading and working through this section will help educators self-assess, collaboratively discuss self-assessment results with a peer or supervisor, and develop specific goals and plans for their Individual Professional Development Plan (IPDP). It includes information and tools written to assist teachers and principals in using the standards to guide professional learning.

This section of the document is organized in three parts:

1. The first part addresses Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession and will be of particular interest to teachers, and principals working with teachers, to develop plans for professional learning.
2. The second part addresses Ohio Standards for Principals and will be of particular interest to principals.
3. The third part addresses Ohio Standards for Professional Development and will be of interest to both teachers and principals.

While the information in this section includes tools written specifically for teachers and principals, educators working in central office administration or serving on school boards should also be aware of the importance of the standards and their uses in a standards-based educational system. Familiarity with the content of this document will help central office administration and school board members to provide policies and resources that will support educators as they continue to gain new skills and knowledge.

The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession define the expectations for Ohio's teachers based on what is known about the traits and skills of effective teachers. The big ideas emphasized in the standards are:

Standard 1 – Students: Effective teachers understand student learning and development, and respect the diverse students that they teach.

Standard 2 – Content: Effective teachers have a deep understanding of the content they teach.

Standard 3 – Assessment: Effective teachers understand and use varied assessments to evaluate student learning and inform instruction.

Standard 4 – Instruction: Effective teachers plan and deliver instruction that is tailored to the needs of each student.

Standard 5 – Learning Environment: Effective teachers create safe, supportive and respectful learning environments.

Standard 6 – Collaboration and Communication: Effective teachers collaborate and communicate with students, parents, other educators, administrators and community members to support student learning.

Standard 7 – Professional Responsibility and Growth: Effective teachers understand that professional development is a continuous process for which they are responsible.

How Might these Standards Affect Teachers?

The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession will not immediately change the process of licensure; that process remains the same. The standards, however, will inform initial licensure as institutions of higher education realign their programs and requirements to the standards, and entry year programs are analyzed to ensure that they adequately reflect the rigor of the standards. The Teacher Education and Licensure Standards reference the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession for more detailed descriptions of performance indicators in performance-based licensure for teachers and principals.

The Local Professional Development Committees (LPDCs) across the state will continue to make decisions about licensure renewal. (A regional team is developing standards-based criteria for LPDCs to use to evaluate individual professional development plans. These likely will be available in fall 2007 and will be released statewide at that time.) Teachers will continue to determine and set their own professional goals. The Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development will serve as a guide for teachers in considering their professional growth across a developmental continuum from Proficient to Accomplished to Distinguished.

Understanding and Using the Standards

Senate Bill 2 directed the Educator Standards Board (ESB) and the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) to develop jointly a proposal for a career ladder program, defined as “a performance-based multilevel system of teaching positions or compensation levels within a school district or district building.” Because adult learning needs are varied, the ESB and ODE recognized the need for a differentiated system that allows for multiple entry points and multiple pathways. Because of the need to allow horizontal, vertical and diagonal movement within the careers of Ohio’s educators, the ESB and ODE determined that the phrase “career lattice” more accurately describes teachers’ progressions throughout their careers than does the phrase “career ladder.”

By articulating a career lattice framework, the ESB and ODE sought to create a comprehensive teacher leadership conceptual framework that enhances roles and responsibilities; encourages increased knowledge, skills and performance; spreads a culture of career opportunities; and increases teacher productivity and fulfillment. This proposal for a career lattice program is firmly anchored in the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession and the Ohio Standards for Principals, both of which emphasize the importance of teacher leadership and shared leadership structures, and the Ohio Standards for Professional Development, which describe a process in which teachers can progress throughout their careers. The full text of the proposal is available online at: <http://esb.ode.state.oh.us/>.

This concept of a career lattice emphasizes the concept that the newly adopted Ohio standards for educators are designed to support teachers and principals throughout the stages of their careers that include:

The proposal for a career lattice program is carefully tied to Ohio’s new standards for educators. The proposal specifies that the Ohio Standards for Professional Development should be used to develop programs that result in teacher knowledge and skill enhancement and that the Ohio Standards for the Teaching Profession offer guidance for attainment of demonstrated knowledge and skills, particularly through the indicators at the Proficient, Accomplished and Distinguished levels. The career lattice program proposal, along with the newly adopted standards, represent a foundation for a vision of thinking about leadership in schools – rethinking the notion of leadership as a single person and instead promoting a vision of teachers and administrators working together in a collaborative, shared leadership process.

Using the Standards for the Teaching Profession for Self-Assessment

Ohio's Standards for the Teaching Profession were not written as evaluation instruments. They can and should, however, be used for self-assessment and to identify areas for growth and further professional development.

Understanding and Using the Standards

The Ohio Standards for Principals define the expectations for Ohio’s principals, based on what is known about the traits and skills of effective school leaders. The big ideas emphasized in the standards are:

- Standard 1 – Continuous Improvement: Principals help create a shared vision and clear goals for their schools and ensure continuous progress toward achieving the goals.
- Standard 2 – Instruction: Principals support the implementation of high-quality standards-based instruction that results in higher levels of achievement for all students.
- Standard 3 – School Operations, Resources and Learning Environment: Principals allocate resources and manage school operations in order to ensure a safe and productive learning environment.
- Standard 4 – Collaboration: Principals establish and sustain collaborative learning and shared leadership to promote student learning and achievement of all students.
- Standard 5 – Parents and Community Engagement: Principals engage parents and community members in the educational process and create an environment where community resources support student learning, achievement and well being.

How Might These Standards Affect Principals?

The Ohio Standards for Principals will not immediately change the process of licensure; that process remains the same. However, the standards will inform initial licensure as institutions of higher education realign their programs and requirements to the standards.

LPDCs across the state will continue to make decisions about licensure renewal. Principals will continue to determine and set their own professional goals. The criteria for assessing the effectiveness of IPDPs, however, will be revised to closely align with the expectations set forth in the standards, as mandated in SB 2. The Ohio Standards for Principals and the Professional Development Standards will serve as a guide for principals in considering their professional growth across a developmental continuum from Proficient to Accomplished to Distinguished.

Using the Standards for Principals for Self-Assessment

Ohio’s Standards for Principals were not written as evaluation instruments. They can and should, however, be used for self-assessment and to identify areas for growth and further professional development.

In the best school systems, principals have a clear instructional mandate with performance incentives tied to meeting high student achievement goals. Principals are central to the system’s ability to create environments where students can meet the high challenge set out for them. As instructional leaders, principals can coach and develop those who have the greatest impact on student achievement: teachers.

Understanding and Using the Ohio Standards for Professional Development

The Ohio Standards for Professional Development define the characteristics of High Quality Professional Development (HQPD). The big ideas emphasized in the standards are that HQPD is:

- Standard 1 – Continuous: High Quality Professional Development is a purposeful, structured and continuous process that occurs over time.
- Standard 2 – Data-Driven: High Quality Professional Development is informed by multiple sources of data.
- Standard 3 – Collaborative: High Quality Professional Development is collaborative.
- Standard 4 – Varied: High Quality Professional Development includes varied learning experiences that accommodate individual educators' knowledge and skills.
- Standard 5 – Evaluated: High Quality Professional Development is evaluated by its short- and long-term impact on professional practice and achievement of all students.
- Standard 6 – Results-Oriented: High Quality Professional Development results in the acquisition, enhancement or refinement of skills and knowledge.

Audiences for Ohio Standards for Professional Development

The Ohio Standards for Professional Development define the characteristics of an HQPD system, and will be useful to many different groups within Ohio's educational system, including:

- individual educators (teachers and principals) planning their own professional development;
- planners of professional development;
- providers of professional development;
- evaluators of existing professional development programs and systems.

Many stakeholders play a role in ensuring the success and effectiveness of ongoing professional development for educators; all of these stakeholders will have an interest in the Ohio Standards for Professional Development. As a result, companion guides and technical manuals specific to the needs of each of these audiences will be developed and disseminated in the 2007-2008 academic year. The information and tools that follow here are written for individual teachers and principals planning their professional learning. Reading and working through this section will help individual educators develop their specific goals and plans for their IPDPs.

Understanding and Using the Standards

Using the Standards for Professional Development

While the specific process for determining professional development activities varies by district, the Ohio Standards for Professional Development suggest a general process that can be followed in concert with any specific process used by an Ohio district.

The Standards suggest a five-step process for professional development planning by individual educators. The steps in this standards-based planning cycle include:

- Step 1: Examine Data – Educators should self-assess and evaluate the available data to determine the needs of their students, school, district and state.
- Step 2: Determine Learning Priorities – Educators should analyze the data collected in Step 1 to identify specific goals for professional learning.
- Step 3: Align Initiatives – Educators should use the information gained from Steps 1 and 2 to identify specific actions and activities that will allow for professional learning.
- Step 4: Develop Implementation Strategies – Given the results of the work done in Steps 1 through 3, educators should develop specific implementation strategies and plans for evaluation.
- Step 5: Monitor, Assess and Reflect – Educators should plan the ways in which they will evaluate the effectiveness of their professional development efforts.

These five steps describe a continuous cycle of professional learning. Educators should realize that professional development is a career-long cycle of improvement.

Step 1: Examine Data

Multiple sources of data must be evaluated to gain a complete picture of a teacher’s or principal’s performance. Educators should conduct a self-assessment. Questions such as the following can help focus this self-assessment.

- What are my strengths and weaknesses?
- To what extent do I meet the Ohio standards?
- What does my self-assessment suggest as areas for growth in my performance?

This document provides a self-assessment tool for teachers, the Teacher Self-Assessment Tool: Standards-Based Guiding Questions (pages 79-83), and one for principals, the Principal Self-Assessment Tool: Standards-Based Guiding Questions (pages 85-90).

Educators should also evaluate the available data to determine the needs of the students in their classrooms or schools. Questions such as the following can aid this process of data collection.

- What are my students’ strengths? Have these changed over the past two to three years? How? Why?
- What are my students’ weaknesses? Have these changed over the past two to three years? How? Why?
- What is the current learning environment in my classroom or school?
- What do I know about the backgrounds of students in my classroom or school? Is there additional information I should gather? How can this information impact my teaching or leadership?
- What does research suggest about effective instruction in my content area or effective school leadership?
- What do evaluations of my performance from my peers or school and district leaders suggest as areas for growth?

Remember, data sources extend far beyond state-mandated assessment results. Student demographics; student participation; student work and classroom performance; internal, formative assessment results; and school climate assessments are all potential sources of data. Some of this data already may have been collected by a school leadership team. Data may be collected and analyzed more efficiently as a small group activity.

Understanding and Using the Standards

Step 2: Determine Learning Priorities

Educators should analyze the data collected in Step 1 to identify specific goals for professional learning.

- What patterns emerge from the data?
- How are strengths and weaknesses in my teaching and leadership connected to student performance?

Teachers and principals should list professional learning goals suggested by the data collected in Step 1.

- What do student data reveal as areas I should emphasize in my professional learning?
- What does my self-assessment reveal as areas I should emphasize in my professional learning?

To focus professional learning priorities to two or three goals, analyzing the data against the priorities of the school, district and state may be helpful. Asking questions such as the following may help educators determine their priorities and focus their goals:

- What are my district's goals?
- What are my school's improvement goals?
- What has Ohio identified as best practices for Ohio teachers and principals?
- Given the goals of my school, district and state, and the data collected in Step 1, what additional knowledge and skills do I need to perform more effectively?

Specific Goals

Goal 1:

Goal 2:

Goal 3:

Step 3: Align Initiatives

Now educators should have a set of two to three professional learning goals. What specific actions and activities will allow for professional learning in these areas? Professional development does not include only workshops or higher education courses; among other activities, professional development can take the form of:

- A training program
- Peer coaching
- Informal peer observation
- Collaborative planning
- Action research
- Off-site visitations
- Team teaching
- Collaborative planning
- A mentoring or shadowing program
- Analyzing student work
- Collecting and analyzing student data
- Researching best-practice solutions

Next, research and compile a list of possible activities and actions that will meet the goals identified in Steps 1 and 2. Keep in mind the importance of including a variety of learning experiences (see PD Standard 4.2) and planning a logical sequence of learning experiences (see PD Standard 4.3).

Step 4: Develop Implementation Strategies

Given the results of the work done in steps 1 through 3, educators should develop specific implementation strategies and plans. Educators should also plan the ways in which they will evaluate the effectiveness of their professional development efforts. Teachers and principals should consider how they will evaluate the short- and long-term impact of professional development on their instructional and leadership practices.

Goal 1:
Goal 2:
Goal 3:

Step 5: Monitor, Assess and Reflect

Continuous monitoring, assessment and reflection about the effectiveness of professional development is essential. Identifying, collecting and organizing evidence in support of the effectiveness of professional development efforts is important. Different types of evidence will illustrate the work that teachers and principals are doing and the outcomes of their professional development efforts. Evidence may include artifacts, products, documents and data. The Ohio Standards for Professional Development suggest that the effectiveness of professional development should be assessed on multiple levels:

- participant satisfaction and learning (see Standard 5.1);
- application of new skills (see Standard 5.2);
- organizational change (see Standard 5.3);
- student achievement (see Standard 5.4).

Specific Goals	Proposed Actions and Dates/Duration	How and When Will Opportunities for Assessment and Reflection Be Incorporated?	What Are Expected Results? What Evidence Will Demonstrate These Results?
Goal 1:
Goal 2:
Goal 3:

Educators are expected to identify their plans for evaluating their professional learning. During the course of professional learning, these various evaluations will be conducted and, as a result, IPDPs and needs may change mid-cycle. This is to be expected as part of the ongoing cycle of professional learning. Submitting evidence of this as part of the IPDP process can demonstrate the importance of ongoing evaluation of professional learning.

Understanding and Using the Standards

In Conclusion

High Quality Professional Development is a process that continues throughout educators' careers. Continuing reflection; new knowledge of teaching, learning and content; new students; and new professional challenges will reveal ongoing emphases for professional development efforts. The completion of each plan provides the opportunity to address new or continuing professional development goals in the next cycle.

Our goal is that the standards and information within this document are helpful as you engage in the cycle of professional learning. Together, we can continue to make Ohio's educational system a world-class system that will prepare students for the 21st century.
