

Ohio Performance Assessment Pilot Project

Coach Application

I. Executive Summary

The purpose of the Ohio Performance Assessment Pilot Project (OPAPP) is to develop and pilot test performance tasks designed for elementary and high school students and aligned to the Common Core State Standards in English Language Arts (ELA) and Mathematics as well as to the New Revised State Standards in Science, Social Studies and Career Technical Pathways. The intended outcome of the pilot is to develop a suite of field-tested performance tasks that could be used in classrooms for both formative and summative purposes, and to train cohorts of teachers to develop tasks, provide feedback to students based on task performance, score student responses to summative tasks and train others to score summative tasks.

A performance-based assessment is a measure of achievement that is based on authentic learning tasks such as activities, exercises or problems that require students to demonstrate what they know and can do.

The Ohio Task Dyad Learning System consists of a Learning Task and an Assessment Task. The Learning Tasks are multi-step tasks that may extend over many class-meeting times and including time spent outside of class-meetings, require some teacher-led scaffolding and can be differentiated as determined by the teacher. These tasks are not secure and can be both shared and modified. Suggested modifications to address the needs of diverse learners will be included as part of the instructor's guide for each task. The Learning Tasks are intended to be embedded within a curriculum. Their purpose is to provide the opportunity for a student to learn in an environment where they can practice doing.

Paired to the Learning Tasks are the Assessment Tasks. These tasks are designed to assess whether students have met the learning goals associated with the learning tasks. The Assessment Tasks are shorter more focused tasks that may extend to only a few class-meeting times, or up to 120 minutes of class time with no time spent outside of class-meetings, and require no teacher intervention or scaffolding. These tasks are secure and cannot be modified. These tasks are intended to serve as summative assessments. Their purpose is to assess what students have learned and are able to do.

Ohio's Race to the Top application committed the state to jointly develop common high quality assessments with other states. Ohio is now a governing member of the Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Career (PARCC). As a governing member of the partnership, Ohio has agreed to administer the PARCC assessments in 2014-15. These assessments will include performance tasks as part of the summative assessments used for accountability. The OPAPP will continue to inform the work of both national consortia as it will pilot tasks that fit the models the consortia are using to define performance assessment.

Schools selected to participate in the pilot project will be integrally involved in the assessment system and will be poised to be leaders in the transition to the new assessment system. Together, schools and districts selected for the one year Ohio Performance Assessment Project will learn to implement and score performance assessments in English, mathematics, science, social studies and/or career technical pathways.

In the table below, the program for the different cohorts is outlined.

Teachers in Cohort 5 will field test a series of online professional learning modules where they will work in groups which will be monitored by online coaches. Online coaches will be responsible for monitoring the progress of teachers through the required elements of the modules, reconciling and releasing the feedback to teachers from their peer reviews, and scoring the Assessment Tasks. Teachers will be reviewing each other’s submissions through TaskStream for the required submission, but online coaches will be scoring the Assessment Tasks. The mechanism for enabling peer reviewing will require that the online coaches go into the tasks and “reconcile” the feedback to release it back to the teacher who wrote it. Online coaches will do this reconciliation when teachers have completed their required reviews.

Training for how to access this information will be provided and supported with instructions and recorded webinars. The module topics include the use of formative instructional techniques, the use of scoring rubrics to guide feedback to students, and re-engagement of students in the material to deepens student understanding.

After teachers have completed the three modules of professional development, school teams will implement Learning Tasks developed by the vendor(s). While implementing the tasks, teachers will still participate in professional development through an online community that will be monitored by the same coaches used in the online modules. The online community is designed to provide support to teachers as they integrate the Learning Task into their curriculum and trouble-shoot issues during implementation.

This application form will be used by individuals who wish to participate in this project as coaches. In this form, applicant coaches will be asked to demonstrate their experience and expertise with performance assessment and coaching teachers. Submitted applications will undergo a review process.
