

SuccessBound Communities

are happening throughout Ohio. You don't need to do it alone!

SuccessBound communities establish partnerships that address our community's workforce development needs and create educational opportunities to prepare students for their futures. As part of the national New Skills for Youth grant, Ohio's SuccessBound encourages opportunities that link our students to coursework, industry-recognized credentials, job experiences and career advising to help them realize their career goals and strengthen our community.

The Adecco Group, the world's leading provider of workforce solutions, is becoming a partner with the state in on-the-job training efforts aimed at strengthening Ohio's labor market. Adecco pledged to facilitate 10,000 work-based learning opportunities by 2020, with an emphasis on apprenticeships.

Small, medium, large and Fortune 500 businesses are encouraged to work with The Adecco Group to coordinate on-the-job training programs tailored to the needs of each business. The human resources company is not only a resource to employers interested in exploring work-based learning options but also can act as the liaison between employers and other stakeholders, such as educators, ensuring that all requirements are met to activate work-based learning at a job site. With a network of skilled, local recruiters who understand Ohio's employment landscape, the staffing company also is positioned to take on the role of Employer of Record for work-based learning participants ages 16 or older.
