

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR REPORTING RESTRAINT AND SECLUSION DATA?

Ohio rule requires districts to annually report information regarding the use of restraint and seclusion to the Department. The district providing direct educational services to the student should document, review and report incidents of restraint and seclusion. However, there are scenarios where reporting requirements may vary. The chart below explains which entities are responsible for reporting.

District, School or Provider	Who Reports
Student attends a community school	Community school
Student attends an educational service center (ESC) program providing regional services	The district and the ESC must come to an agreement of which entity is reporting
Student attends a county board of developmental disabilities (DD) program providing regional services	The district and the Board of DD must come to an agreement of which entity is reporting
Student attends a joint vocational school district	Joint vocational school district
Student in an out-of-district school, alternative school or specialized school where a local school district (district of service) provides the educational programming	District of service
Private/Nonpublic/Parochial Schools	Do not report
Autism Scholarship, Jon Peterson Scholarship and other parentally placed programs	Do not report
Out-of-district placement in a residential treatment program where a student has been placed by their parent, district of residence or court.	Do not report
